Television Distribution Traditional Networks & Platforms

Traditional network television shows create quite the interest and buzz. TV programs now more than ever can be DIY , but although I love the experience where you are able to speak to a person whether you are pitching a tv show or sales agent for slot times and vamping up for a new show to be shown before the world.. Processing the new TV show you are looking to place on their network is very fulfilling. People believe and still share with me stop producing programs just to the networks, but that is where so much of the magic and transformation happens. Those previous notions from people are outdated and being now overrun. People still desire to be connected to NBC, CBS,

ABC, MTV, BET, SHOWTIME and many others. Many tips, information, and building of the resume happens when you connect in even the outskirts of the network directly or indirectly. This was the case for me as independent producer for a year or more with NBC. Easily, the opportunity came to me and glad to grow and learn more about television executive work and production hiring actors and diverse production projects. I learn alot about network television and content creation and how it ties in with celebrities to tie in more views and products sold on a TV program, series, or movie. Believe it or not, they are still looking for great executives and producers for content and talent creatives. Many networks are seeking amazing people even more than just talent but also character. People state how hard and difficult the television and film business is. It is not impossible, just create and seek greater opportunities. I chose more of a job creating a route of economic stimulation in major cities. Especially in times such as these. I believe we are in a cross-blend mix now into the 21st century with technology that is very advanced. There are movies as well as other video contents are now available online, now more than ever. We are talking millions of movies. Whether it be feature films or shorts, there is a place they are being shown and displayed.

The play by play

These content are either put directly online by the owner or from third party services. These third-party services are usually referred to as digital distribution platforms. These platforms allow content owners to upload their videos to enable users to have access to their contents through their smartphones, computers, smart TVs, and many more.

However, These Video-on-demand platforms do not deal with individual filmmakers; that is why they require a distributor to help get their content on these platforms. Therefore, television and media distribution platforms serve as the link between filmmakers and video-on-demand platforms like Amazon, Netflix, Hulu, Google Play, iTunes, and several others.

Television and media distribution platforms help get filmmaker contents on video on demand platforms for a percentage of the revenue. These Television and media distribution platforms include but are not limited to the following:

Hulu being Television on Demand and video on Demand or VOD for short. For more information. A person can do major great things to get their message out there, Whether it be documentaries, or sci- fi movies, or reality TV shows. A new wave and generation of creatives on a different dimension of change and growth. It is well understood people continually say over and over how difficult the undertaking is. It is just taking on a willingness and mind of greatness.

Media Law

Now, this applies to anything with high performance and creativity. You want to rise and elevate to the occasion. You are going to have to learn, grow, develop, innovate and transform your life and career. What is helpful as any field is when you are familiar with law and litigation, referring to Television and Media Entertainment Law. You potentially become more solid, astute and having much understanding than before regarding more complex and executive administrative functions in the world of media and entertainment.
